How It's Going

- ▶ Community Engagement Officer & Partnership with CCN
- ▶ Responding to Calls
- ▶ Officer Referrals
- ▶ Impact on Policing & KPS

“The CCN works well within the vulnerable populations of Kentville because of her client centered approach. She has specialized training that goes beyond what our KPS members can provide and is always willing to advocate for others to ensure that their needs are met. She has built meaningful relationships with members of the community and her collaboration with KPS is a huge asset to the Town of Kentville.”

“The role of the CCN is an invaluable asset to the KPS, but more importantly an asset to our community. As we look at the future of policing, the CCN is a vital part of the services we can offer our community. The CCN supports the KPS officers on some of the most difficult calls of service they attend, which allows them to have another resource to assist with our communities most vulnerable people. The CCN supports many local organizations, community groups and strengthens the mission and values of the KPS.”

“A part I feel is helpful in these situations is when a referral is made to our CCN member, she is able to open a file and follow these people while they are getting help. She is able to meet with them, she helps them, and she can continue helping these people after the original call for service is completed.”

“I have routinely asked the CCN to provide insight on things I am working on. She is always willing to help, and her insight has proved invaluable.”

“Her involvement with persons in the community allows for a more client centered and trauma informed approach. By supporting the complex needs of vulnerable individuals, she saves them from navigating systems that are not often equipped to offer what they are seeking. Persons who may be facing multiple and complex challenges such as homelessness, poverty, mental illness, and additions often fall through the crack or don't know how to access the proper service. The ability of the CCN to meet them where they are at and help them coordinate supports is an important service to the community.”

“A lot of people don't always like having a uniform police officer show up, having our CCN member with me was very helpful for situations because she is not in a uniform. Our CCN member has been able to de-escalate a lot of situations on calls for service and it is noticed how many people in crisis feel they can open up to her and talk about everything that is going on in their lives. She is very approachable and always willing to sit down and meet with anyone.”

“We feel it would be a great loss to the community and service users if the CCN position were to discontinue. In such a short time that this position has been in place, we have already seen benefits to the clients we serve, and to us as professionals who work in collaboration with the CCN.”
